Governor Deal Declares March 6, 2012 Georgia Downtown Day

Georgia Downtown Association President Billy Peppers, Governor Nathan Deal, and Commissioner Mike Beatty recognize the value of Georgia’s downtowns to our economy.

Georgia's downtowns are the heart and soul of our communities, according to the Governor's proclamation declaring Georgia Downtown Day. Not only are they full of history, art and culture, but they're economic drivers in our state, as well. Billy Peppers, President of The Georgia Downtown Association and Commissioner Beatty presented Governor Deal with a check for $2.9 billion, representing the amount of private and public investment in the 100 Main Street cities across Georgia since the program started in 1980.

2012 GICH Retreat in Tifton
Congratulations to the Department's two newest WaterFirst Communities: the City of Loganville and the joint communities of Newton County, Covington, Mansfield, Newborn, Oxford, Porterdale and Social Circle. We appreciate your commitment to water stewardship!

First Lady Sandra Deal, Commissioner Mike Beatty and Buster celebrate the Keep Georgia Beautiful Foundation's kickoff of the 2012 Great American Cleanup. In 2011, our local Keep Georgia Beautiful programs cleaned more than 1.9 million pounds of trash off of Georgia roadways. We're looking forward to a successful spring 2012!

March is National Peanut Month!

The City of Tifton and Tift County, GICH alumni communities, hosted the February 27- March 1, 2012 retreat at the University of Georgia Tifton Campus Conference Center. The retreat included facilitated sessions for each community team to develop their housing work plans, speakers on current issues related to housing and community development, and an opportunity to see a Net Zero Energy house under construction by students from Moultrie Technical College in an historic district in downtown Tifton.

Since November 2004, the GICH program has offered communities a three-year program of collaboration and technical assistance to help them meet their affordable housing needs. The Department, the Georgia Municipal Association, the University of Georgia's Housing and Demographics Research Center, and Office of the Vice President for Public Service and Outreach are the primary partners for the Georgia Initiative for Community Housing. Georgia Power Company, Wells Fargo, and USDA Rural Development provide funding for the program. Georgia Electric Membership Corporation and UGA's Archway Partnership Program serve as GICH's facilitation partners.

GICH accepts applications from prospective program participants each year. For additional information, please contact Cynthia Harrison, DCA Community Initiatives Coordinator at (404) 502-6176 or Cynthia.harrison@dca.ga.gov or Program Director Karen Tinsley at (706) 542-4949 or klt@uga.edu.

If you've ever been to the City of Young Harris, you know that its small-town charm, high up in the mountains of Georgia, is worth preserving. The citizens and elected officials of Young Harris are proud of their heritage and their tight-knit community and want to keep those important elements even as the city grows. Young Harris College is expanding its campus. The Georgia Department of
We all know that Georgia produces more peanuts than any other state in the nation, but did you know:

- Peanuts contribute more than $4 billion to the US economy each year.
- There are enough peanuts grown in one acre to make about 30,000 peanut butter sandwiches.
- The average child will eat about 1,500 peanut butter sandwiches before he or she graduates from high school.
- The average American consumes more than six pounds of peanuts and peanut butter products each year.
- Peanuts flower above ground but migrate underground to reach maturity.
- The majority of US peanut farms are family owned and operated.
- The average US peanut farm is about 100 acres.
- Two United States Presidents have been peanut farmers: our own President Jimmy Carter of Plains, and President Thomas Jefferson of Virginia.

Many thanks to the National Peanut Board for these peanut facts!

Transportation is planning a Highway 76 Bypass to circumnavigate the city. In short, change is inevitable, but the city leaders and citizens want the changes made in concert with the community, rather than overwhelming the community.

To assist in that change management, the Department sent a Team Georgia Resource Team to the city to listen to community members express their concerns and desires for growth. After gathering as much information as possible during the two day visit, the team is constructing a series of recommendations for Young Harris to help it meet its goals of historic and cultural preservation in a time of change. The team will return to Young Harris in the spring to make its final recommendations and assist with implementing their recommendations.

Team Georgia provides Resource Teams to communities through an application process, found HERE. For more information on how your community may benefit from technical assistant through Resource Teams, please contact Jim Frederick at jim.frederick@dca.ga.gov.

Three Task Forces to Review Codes and Make Georgia Recommendations

The Department's Office of Construction Codes will work with two task forces to review the 2012 International Building and 2012 International Residential codes. The groups will then make recommendations to the State Codes Advisory Committee (SCAC) regarding adoption of the 2012 codes and any Georgia amendments. In general, amendments are made to provide more flexibility at the local/builder level in implementing new codes.

A third, newly-created task force will be working on the development of two Disaster Resilient Building Codes Appendices, an optional set of appendices that may be adopted by local governments to provide for enhanced codes to address mitigating building damage due to natural disasters.

If you have questions or would like to be placed on the interested parties list for notifications about any of these task forces, please contact:
