Program Overview

The Georgia Department of Community Affairs (DCA) has various responsibilities, including providing the state with ample actionable data to make operations more meaningful and efficient for communities. DCA's Research & Surveys group collects, maintains, and publishes data on Georgia's local governments and authorities. These types of programs are generally divided into areas of focus concerning the tracking of funds and the reporting of operations. Tools such as the Uniform Chart of Accounts standardize accounting practices to be used by communities throughout the state consistently. Others, such as the Contact Database, centralize information for public use.
