Character areas may be identified by the types of development found there which vary from historic downtowns, commercial/industrial areas, or residential neighborhoods. Other character areas may lack development and include more natural features such as greenspace, bodies of water, or agriculture.

The following list identifies character areas found within the City of Temple. Each character area listed contains a description and desired development patterns, recommended land uses, and a list of implementation measures. Current photos are also included which give an actual snap shot into each distinct character area.

Historic Downtown

Description and Development Patterns:

The historic downtown is the traditional heart of the City of Temple. Historic commercial buildings are largely vacant but offer much opportunity for future retail and infill. In the recent past, commercial activity has relocated to the GA Hwy 78 and Hwy 113 corridor's which has played a large part in the vacancy rate in downtown. Structural integrity of historic buildings has decreased at a high rate but offer great opportunity for redevelopment. Pedestrian safety remains a concern as GA Hwy 113 runs through and the condition of existing sidewalks vary. The revitalization of the historic downtown is very important to the citizens of the City of Temple. A desire exists to capture more business downtown and allow it to serve as a community focal point and an epicenter for community pride.

Land Uses:

Commercial and retail, Parks and Greenspace, Office Space, Public and Civic

Implementation Measures:

- Encourage mixed use
- Encourage architecturally compatible infill

Surrounding the historic downtown area of Temple are traditional residential neighborhoods. Immediately adjacent to downtown, historic homes date from the turn of the twentieth century and many of which are eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. Homes are located close to the street and on small to medium lots. Homes become increasing mid-century ranch style farther out from the downtown yet still situated close to the road and lot sizes remain small. The majority of the homes are owner-occupied but there has been an increase in renters recently. Also, structural maintenance varies and there exists many vacant homes in need of restoration.

Within this area there are little to no sidewalk connectivity and varied street patterns, loop roads, and cul-de-sacs. Homes are located on larger lot sizes and larger road setbacks. Some residential developments remain unfinished and contain varying degrees of home maintenance. Pockets of commercial activity exist within the character area as well which are dispersed between residential developments.

Land Uses:

Single-family Residential, Multi-family Residential, Public/Institutional, Mixed Use Development, Neighborhood Commercial/Retail, Parks and Recreation

Implementation Measures:

- Link new development to existing sidewalk network
- Encourage neighborhood associations

Commercial Corridors

Description and Development Patterns:

Commercial corridors and nodes exist along both the GA Highway 113 and US Highway 78. The GA Highway 78 corridor has the potential to continue to develop but is still concentrated around the intersection with GA Highway 113. GA Highway 113 corridor between US Highway 78 and Interstate 20 serves as the main center of commercial activity within the City of Temple.

Within these commercial corridors exists underdeveloped commercial parcels and buildings with space for additional business. The economic vibrancy of these corridors are important to the City of Temple because it is the location of the majority of the business activity but also because they are highly visible gateways into the City. The economic development of these commercial corridors and the adjacent industrial park will remain a priority of the City in the future.

Land Uses:

Commercial and Mixed-Use.

Implementation Measures:

- Build commercial structures near street front
- Encourage rear parking
- Landscape buffers
- Proper signage
- Façade improvements
- Provide sidewalks to link adjacent residential areas
- Utilize wide street widths for bike lanes

Industrial

Description and Development Patterns:

The City of Temple has a dedicated industrial park to serve light to heavy industrial uses. Working with Carroll Tomorrow, the City of Temple has successfully attracted businesses to the park with ample space for expansion and additional manufacturing, wholesale trade, and distribution activities. The industrial park is located along GA Highway 113 and offers direct access to Interstate 20. The expansion of manufacturing has the most potential within the designated industrial park. North of Interstate 20, industrial land exists adjacent to residential development. Industry expansion should take into consideration nuisance characteristics and incorporate landscaping.

Land Uses:

Heavy and Light Industrial, Commercial, Distribution Centers, Manufacturing

Implementation Measures:

- Adequate roadways
- Buffer requirements
- Collaborate with Carroll Tomorrow and Carroll County Development Authority

Conservation

Description and Development Patterns:

Located within the City of Temple exists greenspace, undeveloped land, and environmentally sensitive areas which should be protected and conserved. Conservation of these areas will not only protect the environment, watersheds, and wildlife but will also increase passive recreational opportunities for citizens. Expansion of conservation areas via land acquisition especially during a time of lessened residential development should be considered.

Land Uses:

Conservation, Greenspace, Recreation, Conservation Subdivisions, Parks

Implementation Measures:

- Land preservation
- Conservation subdivisions
- Limit new development

- Conservation easements
- Viewshed preservation
- Open space preservation
- Greenspace acquisition
